Musical Recital.

stedly be one of the musical events

The following is taken from the Altoona (Pa.) Times:

At Grace Lutheran church last evening Mr and Mrs. Frank Stayton Thompson ave a recital of vocal and instrumental himbers which has seldom if ever been equalled in Altoona, by visiting artists. Mr. Thompson is here representing the New York Vocal Institute. His magnificant work last evening would be a credit to any school and bespeaks high traise for the talented and cultured vocalist as well as for the institution he represents. He possesses a sonorous bass baritone of exceptionally long range and of a most mellow and sympathetic quality. The programme was a long and rather loavy one, there being numbers from oratorio and opera, as well as a number of beautiful ballads, but Mr. Thompson showed that his closing numbers were sonly just beginning. The variety were only just beginning. The variety of the programme was and ease as if he were only just beginning. The variety of the artist. Mrs. Thompson derives the highest praise, both as a solo panolist and accompanist. She played as sonly an artist can, and displayed a most beautiful touch and a technic that was well-nigh perfect. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will give other recitais during their saying.
